Dear Sirs,
I am retired, I travel extensively by auto and RV and I am an avid listener to XM radio.

Previous to my XM I was continuously frustrated by having to search for broadcast channels every few miles in order to maintain some continuity of program choice.

I am appalled at the arrogance of the broadcast radio and TV media. They need to have some measure of competition to control their selection of what I want to hear and see.

I have chosen to turn them off now that I have the selectivity of satellite radio and TV.

Everyone else should have the same choice. Those who want to be spoonfed by the media elite and "politically correct" programming will still have the option of staying in the 20th century.

Please do not limit my XM Radio.
